A low-angle, upward-looking shot of a construction worker on an orange scissor lift. The worker, wearing a yellow safety vest, blue jeans, and a white hard hat, is positioned in the center of the frame, reaching towards the upper steel beams of a building's roof structure. The lift is extended upwards, its orange arm and platform clearly visible. The building's framework consists of dark grey steel beams and lighter grey concrete slabs. A large glass skylight is visible at the top, showing a bright blue sky with scattered white clouds. The overall scene conveys a sense of progress and industrial activity.
